that, according to the Govt. of India scheme already circulated to Council, provision has been made to secure that the legitimate claims of existing incumbents are safeguarded. It is accordingly provided that each State Govt. should set up a Selection Board in consultation with the Govt. of India. The Selection Board should ordinarily include the Chief Secretary and the Chairman of the State Public Service Commission where such a body exists. The Selection Board should review the cases of all the officers holding posts to be encadred in the I.A.S and make a preliminary selection from among them of all such officers who,

1. The number of posts in the Indian Administrative Service Scheme proposed by the Government of India is 38.

2. 27 of them are Senior posts according to the Statement I furnished by our Government (Flagged N). To this they have added Leave Reserve (2), Deputation Reserve (3) and Training Reserve (Junior Cadre) (2) and Junior Vacancies (4). The total of these comes to 11, bringing the total number of posts to 38. They have reserved 7 of these vacancies to be filled up by promotion from the Provincial Services.

3. It may be seen from the above that provision has been made to absorb most of the Senior Officers and that the number of vacancies reserved for Junior Officers is 7.

4. From the Statement No. III, it may be seen that there are 97 officers who have more than 10 years of service before they attain the age of superannuation. The Statement No.IV gives an idea as to the number of officers who are 40 years and below and the number of such officers is 70. Quite a number of officers in the latter list would have in the normal course of events, got into the cadre of Deputy Commissioners and above. It is therefore, desirable to safeguard the interests of these officers and it is therefore necessary that the number of posts in the Junior cadre be increased to at least 30. All the officers in either III or IV list as may be decided by Government might be screened by the Special Recruitment Board and 30 persons picked up for the Junior cadre. They would constitute the pool from which the future vacancies in the Senior posts of the I.A.S. can be filled up. Henceforth according to the scheme of the Government of India all the future vacancies in the Junior cadre will be filled up by direct recruitment from out of the candidates passing the I.A.S. Examination. The number of men that will have to be so taken every year has been fixed at 1.08 which might mean that we have to take one or two persons every year.

5. All the persons in the cadre of Assistant Commissioners who are not selected for the I.A.S. cadres will have to be continued in the Provincial Services. The total number of posts of Assistant Commissioners (permanent and ~~xxx~~ on other duty but likely to continue for a long time) would be about 103 according to Statement No.V. If 30 persons are taken into the Junior I.A.S. cadre as part of the initial recruitment (which, however we have to ask for, if Government approve) 73 persons remaining would constitute the Provincial Services.

6. For these officers, 7 of the Senior I.A.S. posts have been reserved in the scheme itself. There are 20 senior posts at present carrying a pay of Rs.800/- and above, which have not been included in the I.A.S. cadre. Some of them are temporary and are likely to be abolished soon. This figure may get itself reduced to not less than 12. So in the result, 19 senior posts (12 plus 7) would be open for these 73 persons who will be left in the Provincial Service. The figure of 12 posts is also likely to be enhanced by at least 4 or 5 due to increase in the number of Departments that are likely to arise as a consequence of the expansion of the activities of the Government in future. For example the posts of Commissioner for Food Production Scheme, the Director of Food Supplies, the Director of Anti-Corruption and Efficiency Audit etc, are bound to be continued for a long time.

7. Thus about 20 to 24 senior posts will always be available for the officers of the Provincial Service, and thus their interests would not thereby suffer.

8. The mode of recruitment for the future cadre of Non-I.A.S. Assistant Commissioners would mainly have to be done from the pool of Amildars, which may be constituted in the following manner:

1) By direct recruitment of Revenue Probationers as in vogue now. The pace of recruitment will have to be determined according to the number of vacancies that may arise.

2) By promoting deserving men from the subordinate Services.

9. At present there is an intermediate cadre of Senior Assistant Commissioners carrying a pay of Rs.500-25-600. As the number of vacancies in the cadre of Senior Assistant Commissioner have been fixed at only 10, it would work as a great hardship to many of the service men as they would stagnate at Rs.500/-. With a view to give them some relief it would be desirable to abolish the cadre of Senior Assistant Commissioners and to have a running grade of Rs.300-25-600. As a result of this, many officers who get promotio as Assistant Commissioners from out of those taken as Amildars according to para 8.(2) supra can hope to reach a salary of at least Rs.600/- by the time they retire. The 20 to 24 senior posts which are not included in the I.A.S. cadre would be open for the persons recruited according to Sub para (1) of para No.8.

10. A diagramatic picture of the scheme is given.

COUNCIL NOTE.

SUBJECT: PARTICIPATION IN INDIAN ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICE SCHEME.

When the emergency recruitment scheme was formulated and put into operation in June 1948 to reinforce the I.A.S. and the I.P.S. cadres of the Provinces, the question arose as to whether persons domiciled in acceding States would be allowed to compete for the All-India Services. The advertisement which was issued by the Special Recruitment Board calling for applications for the emergency recruitment laid down that subjects of States which had not participated in the I.A.S. and I.P.S. schemes would not be eligible for these Services. At the instance of the Ministry of States, however, it was agreed that if the Government of any State or Union of States desired to participate in the I.A.S. or I.P.S. scheme and establish a cadre in its own territory in the same way as the Provinces have done, candidates from such States or Unions should be eligible for appointment to this Service on the same terms as candidates from the Provinces. It was decided that the Ministry of States should consult the Governments of the States and the Unions of States concerned and on the latter expressing their willingness to participate in the scheme of all-India Services, the scope of these schemes should be extended to include them.

2. The Ministry of States accordingly started consultations with the States and Unions of States and when a large measure of agreement had been arrived at on the principle of participation of the States in the All-India Services, a Conference of Chief Secretaries was held to finalise the details of the scheme. The Conference which met on the 25th of July 1949 discussed all relevant details but reserved final decisions on behalf of their respective Governments. On the basis of these discussions the Scheme as outlined below, has been drawn up by the Ministry of Home Affairs, Government of India. The salient features of the scheme are summarised in the following paragraphs.

3. (i) It is suggested that the following States would participate in the I.A.S. Scheme:

1. Hyderabad
2. Mysore
3. Travancore and Cochin
4. Rajasthan
5. Madhyabharat
6. Vindhya Pradesh
7. Saurashtra
8. Patiala and East Punjab States Union.

Of these 8 units, the first three should have independent cadres of their own. Rajasthan and Madhyabharat would have a joint cadre, Vindhya Pradesh, a joint cadre with the Central Province, Saurashtra with Bombay and PEPSU with East Punjab. The strength of the respective ~~xxxxxx xxx~~ cadres has been fixed and will be found in the Appendix to the Scheme.

(ii) For the intial constituion of the cadre, recruitment should be made (a) from the existing incumbents of posts hereafter included in the I.A.S.Cadre, and (b) from the open market under the Emergency Recruitment Scheme which is already applicable to the Provinces. As regards the first source, it has been provided that the States and Unions will on the advice of the States Ministry set up suitable Selection Boards to consider the claims of the existing incumbents of the senior posts under the respective Governments. The Selection Boards would recommend to the Government of India those whom they consider suitable for appointment to the I.A.S. The Special Recruitment Board would thereafter interview them and consider their cases in any other manner they deem fit and place them in two separate lists. The first list would contain names of officers who are considered immediately suitable for appointment to the I.A.S. The second list would be of officers who though not immediately suitable show sufficient promise to attain the I.A.S. standard within a period not more than five years. In addition to these two lists a third list would also be prepared of persons who are not immediately suitable for the I.A.S, and may or may not be suitable within a period of five years but who for good and sufficient reasons have claims for permanent continuance in the I.A.S. posts which they hold. Officers included in list I will be immediately appointed to the I.A.S. Those in list II will be appointed to the I.A.S. as a result of periodical review in course of the next five years while those in list III will continue in their posts till they retire without being absorbed in the I.A.S. For this purpose the posts held by officers in list III, and also by officers in list II till they are absorbed in the I.A.S. would be temporarily excluded from the I.A.S. cadre.

(iii) The existing incumbents having been thus considered the remaining vacancies will be filled by open market recruitment on the basis of the Emergency Recruitment Scheme. A fresh opportunity will be given to persons domiciled in the States to apply to the Special Recruitment Board and that for this purpose the Special Recruitment Board will issue a supplementary advertisement.

4. The general principles of this scheme have been approved by the Hon'ble the Home Minister. It is now for acceptance by the Governments of the States and the Unions of States concerned. On their accepting the scheme, it will be placed before the Government of India for final approval in consultation with the Federal Public Service Commission. After this scheme has been accepted, Home Ministry propose to formulate a similar scheme for the participation of the States in the Indian Police Service.

SCHEME.

1. The Scheme and its Objects: The Indian Administrative Service has been organised as an All-India Service in order to perform all the functions (other than judicial functions) formerly performed by the Indian Civil Service. As at present organised, it is sufficient to provide Senior Administrative Officers in the numbers required to meet the needs of all the Provincial Governments and part of the needs of the Central Government.

This Scheme provides for the extension of the organisation of the Indian Administrative Service so as to provide Senior Administrative Officers required by the Governments of the States and Unions of States in India. The object of such extension is to maintain and where necessary introduce a standard of efficiency at the higher administrative level in the States, comparable to that maintained in all the Provincial Governments and at the Centre. Other incidental purposes likely to be secured by the Scheme are:

First: The provision of equal opportunities for candidates domiciled in Provinces and States for service under all the Governments in India.

Secondly: The eventual establishment on an equal basis of a system of interchange of officers between the Central Government and the Governments of the States and Unions of States in the same manner as between the Central Government and the Provinces at present; and Thirdly: The creation among the higher administrative officers under all the Governments in India of Esprit de corps and consciousness of unity of purpose on an All-India basis.

3. Constitution of the cadres:

(ii) The State cadres of the I.A.S. will include all senior posts in the States concerned of and above the rank of District Magistrate and Collectors of Districts and Secretaries to Government. They will also include such other posts as in the opinion of the Government of the State concerned and the Government of India should be held by officers of the Indian Administrative Service. On the basis of the number of senior posts so determined, provision should be made for the usual leave and deputation reserves. A certain number of junior and training posts should also be provided for in the cadre, to be held by officers recruited to the cadre before they acquire the experience and seniority necessary for holding senior posts. The cadre strength proposed for the States referred to with details thereof are given in the statement in the Appendix.

4. Initial Constituion (Existing Incumbents): Many of the States have organised Civil Services of their own while in some e.g. Rajasthan which has recently been integrated as a Union the services are yet to be organised. The standardattained by the services also differ considerably in different States as also the methods of recruitment thereto. It is essential, however, while senior posts in the States are encadred in the I.A.S., that care should be taken to secure that the legitimate claims of existing incumbents of such posts are adequately safeguarded. It is accordingly provided that the existing incumbents of the posts to be encadred and all officers holding posts of similar status should be considered to be the first and primary source for recruitment to the State cadres of the Indian Administrative Service at its initial constitution. The following steps are prescribed to afford opportunities to existing incumbents to be absorbed immediately or gradually in the Indian Administrative Service:-

(i) Each State Government should set up a Selection Board in consultation with the Government of India. The selection Board should ordinarily include the Chief Secretary and the Chairman of the State Public Service Commission where such a body exists. The Selection Board should review the cases of all the officers of the State Government of the description given above; and make a preliminary selection from among them of all such officers who, in its opinion, are suitable for inclusion in one or other of the three lists referred to in sub-para (ii) below:

(ii) The Special Recruitment Board will thereupon interview the officers selected by the Selection Board; and take such steps as it may consider necessary to assess their claims for inclusion in one or other of the following list viz:-

THE FIRST LIST: This will contain names of officers who are considered to be suitable for immediate appointment to the I.A.S. subject to probation, with reference to the minimum All-India standard adopted in assessing the suitability of Provincial Service Officers.

THE SECOND LIST: This will contain names of officers who though not up to the required standard immediately show sufficient promise to render it likely that they would attain such standard, with further experience during a period not exceeding 5 years.

THE THIRD LIST: This will contain the names of all officers who for good and sufficient reasons, are shown to have developed a right to hold permanently one of the posts included in the I.A.S. Cadre. Such officers should be included in List III, unless they are included in List I, and whether or not they are included in List II also.

(iii) (a) Officers in List I will be immediately appointed to the I.A.S. in the State Cadre concerned, subject to probation.

(b) Officers placed in List II will continue to hold their present posts but will not be absorbed in the I.A.S. immediately. Their work will be watched during the next 5 years and they will be absorbed in the All-India Service as a result of periodical reviews as and when they are found fit for the service. Those of them who are not found fit within the period of five years will either be reverted to posts outside the cadre of the I.A.S. or retire as the State Government concerned may think fit, unless they are also included in List III.

(c) Officers included in List III will continue to hold their present post or a post of equivalent rank until they retire. They will not be absorbed in the I.A.S. except as provided in sub-para (iii) (b) above.

(iv) The posts to be held by officers included in Lists II and III will be excluded from the I.A.S. cadre for the period that they are required to be held by the existing incumbents and will revert to the I.A.S. cadre, as and when they cease to be required for this purpose.

xx xx xx

6. Future Maintenance: The I.A.S. cadres of the States, are to be normally maintained, on a permanent basis:

(a) by direct recruitment on the results of the annual competitive examination held by the F.P.S.C. on an All-India basis, for all the Cadres, of the I.A.S.

(b) by promotion to each State Cadre from amongst officers of the State Civil Service concerned.

As in the case of the Provincial cadres, 25 per cent of the Senior posts in the cadre of each State will be earmarked for promotion of officers of the State Civil Service concerned. The remaining posts will be declared to be direct recruitment posts and filled on the results of the competitive examination referred to above. The rate of normal annual recruitment is prescribed in the case of each cadre in the Statement in the Appendix to this Scheme.
